Program Title: Survival II

For Girl Scouts in: grades 6-12

Program Type: Program Event

Program Description: Girls, now that you know how to survive the woods, come spend the weekend with us and use the skills that you learned and learn even more that will help you survive being 'stranded' for the weekend on your own.

Do you want to take the next step in learning how to survive in the woods?

We will be spending the weekend outdoors 'stranded' in the woods learning and using more survival skills. How we camp depends on you.

You will stay the entire weekend, sleep outside no matter the weather, and absolutely no electronic devices will be allowed.

All who sign up are treated equally. That means no matter your age or your level in scouts you will be treated the same and participate in the same way, so all rules apply to all participants. If you do not want to spend the night outside in a shelter you make yourself with supplies given then this might not be for you.

You MUST complete Survival I to participate in Survival II.

Program Title: Dissection Lab

For Girl Scouts in: grades 6-10

Program Type: Program Event

Description of Program: Come and join the Life Science Education Center from Marian University as we examine and compare the anatomy of three different animals. Learn about adaptations, classification, and body systems of a snake, rat, and pigeon. You will work in groups to investigate and dissect one of the above-mentioned animals. Discussion of similarities and differences will follow, as you will have the opportunity to view the work with other girls. Come and see what this lab is all about. Girls will receive the Math and Science Center Patch at this workshop.

Fee Per Girl: $6
